Introductory Educational Developer Portfolio Workshop

This Introductory Educational Developer Portfolio Workshop was developed by Rebecca Taylor (taylor10@mcmaster.ca) and Elliot Storm (storme@mcmaster.ca) of the MacPherson Institute for Leadership, Innovation and Excellence in Teaching at McMaster University. It is based on the 2017 EDC Institute on the Educational Developers Portfolio, designed and facilitated in a blended format by Jeanette McDonald, Deb Dawson, Judy Chan, and Isabeau Iqbal. Elliot and Rebecca took what they learned at the Institute and developed a four-hour version, spread over two days, for educational developers at the MacPherson Institute. This is a modified version of the slides Rebecca and Elliot used.

Intended Learning Outcomes

- Explain the context and purpose behind ED portfolios

- Reflect on your role and underlying values that shape your practice

- Prepare a draft statement of your ED philosophy

- Plan other components of your ED portfolio

PART 1

Educational Development Portfolios: The Context

- Formalization and professionalization of field

- Normalization of portfolios as key developmental documents

- Publication of The Educational Developer's Portfolio - McDonald, J., Kenny, N., Kustra, E., Dawson, D., Iqbal, I., Borin, P., & Chan, J. (2016). Educational Development Guide Series: No. 1. The Educational Developer's Portfolio. Ottawa, Canada: Educational Developers Caucus.

What Is an ED Portfolio, Anyway?

"A tool used to articulate, reflect upon, and provide evidence of an educational developer's beliefs, values, ethical principles, practices, approaches, development, and impact." (McDonald et. al., 2016, p. 12)

1. Evidence: artifacts as evidence of skills

2. Reflection: thoughtful consideration of growth and impact

3. Narrative: authentic, aligned presentation

Explore ED Portfolios

1. What is the purpose of the portfolio? Is it stated or implied?

2. Who is the intended audience? Is it stated or implied?

3. What kinds of materials did the author include?

Educational Development Philosophy

Communicates "what your fundamental beliefs are about educational development, why you hold these beliefs, and how you translate these into practice," (McDonald et al., 2016, p. 35)

Technicalities: 1-2 pages in length, written in first person.

Significance: rest of portfolio is aligned to this statement

Educational Development Philosophy Components

- Definitions and Beliefs about Educational Development

- Roles, Methods, and Strategies

- Impact

- Future Goals

Writing it Down

Consider writing using an application and/or in a setting that will allow you to reduce distractions and engage in free-writing sessions.

For example, http://750words.com offers a clean and simple space to write in; note that it requires you to sign up for an account so it can keep your writing private.

During your initial documenting of ideas, commit to writing without (your own) judgment. The first step is to simply put your thoughts down, be they brilliant or less so; you can come back to revisiting later.

Educational Development Philosophy Guiding Questions

- Identify one Guiding Question from each of the 4 sections in handout Table 5.1 that you will challenge yourself to answer in a free-write session

- Create a private document to save your writing in

- You will have ~10 minutes per prompt - write with abandon!

Wrapping Up Part 1

Writing exercise - how did that go?

- What was the experience like? What went well? What was challenging? Were any components or questions especially tough?

Wrapping Up Part 1

Coming up in Part 2:

- Short small group discussion related to your Philosophy

- Work time for your Philosophy

- Exploring & starting work on other components of a Portfolio

PART 2

Intended Learning Outcomes

✓ Explain the context and purpose behind ED portfolios

✓ Reflect on your role and underlying values that shape your practice

• Prepare a draft statement of your ED philosophy

• Plan other components of your ED portfolio

Identifying Key Moments for your ED Philosophies

- First: take ~2 minutes to quietly review your writing from the guiding questions activity in Part 1 and reflect on what resonates with you most

- Once directed into groups: with your peers, share an insight or a small bit of writing (only if you'd like to) that you imagine will be a key part of your ED Philosophy - ~10min

Philosophy Drafting

For the next 40 minutes, begin to transform your writing from the guiding questions into an educational development philosophy.
