The 3M National Teaching Fellowship is sponsored by both 3M Canada and the Society for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education (STLHE). Founded in 1986, the Fellowship honours exceptional contributions to teaching and learning at the post-secondary level.

"With a bright future within reach, we need exceptional educators and leaders such as those who have been chosen as the 2021 3M National Teaching Fellows to facilitate the shift that is being demanded of the current post-secondary landscape," said Denise Stockley, President of STLHE. "These ten Fellows will join a community of peers seeking not only teaching excellence, but equity in higher education."

"This past year has been one like no other. During the pandemic teachers had to quickly pivot, innovate and engage their students in new ways," said Penny Wise, President of 3M Canada. "Thanks to the exceptional contributions of educators, we have a very bright future ahead."

"Congratulations to this year's 3M Teaching Fellows. The work you're doing today will have a lasting impact on our future workforce."

The 2021 3M National Teaching Fellowship Award recipients are not only excellent educators, but also leaders, both nationally and internationally, at their institutions and within their professional communities.
