lead that shift,” said Denise Stockley, Chair of the STLHE Board of Directors. “These ten Fellows will join a community of peers who seek not only teaching excellence, but equity in higher education.”

“The 3M National Teaching Fellowship honours and celebrates outstanding contributions to teaching and learning in Canadian post-secondary education. This year’s Teaching Fellows embody the highest ideals of teaching excellence and scholarship and represent a broad range of academic disciplines,” said Penny Wise, President of 3M Canada. “Congratulations to this year’s Teaching Fellows. You have gone above and beyond to encourage, support and inspire the next generation of Canada’s leaders to excel.”

The 2022 3M National Teaching Fellowship Award recipients are not only excellent educators, but also leaders, both nationally and internationally, at their institutions and within their professional communities.

Recipients of the award each receive a two-year membership for STLHE and are invited to a retreat with their cohort to share knowledge and create synergies to continue to promote leadership and excellence in teaching and learning.

STLHE and 3M Canada will officially welcome these amazing educators into the Fellowship at the STLHE conference which will be hosted in Ottawa from June 7-10, 2022.
