THE SOCIETY FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING IN HIGHER EDUCATION, IN PARTNERSHIP WITH 3M CANADA ANNOUNCES THE 2024 3M NATIONAL TEACHING FELLOWSHIP AWARD RECIPIENTS

Recognizing exceptional Canadian post-secondary educators

3M Canada and the Society for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education (STLHE) are pleased to congratulate the recipients of the 2024 3M National Teaching Fellowship Award:

Dr. Erin Austen, St. Francis Xavier University

Dr. Loleen Berdahl, University of Saskatchewan

Dr. Nicole Campbell, Western University

Dr. Serge Chalhoub, University of Calgary

Dr. Cari Din, University of Calgary

Dr. Samanti Kulatilake, Mount Royal University

Dr. Heather Lawford, Bishop's University

Dr. Richelle Monaghan, Wilfrid Laurier University

Dr. Libby (Elizabeth) Osgood, University of Prince Edward Island

Dr. Rosemary Reilly, Concordia University

The 3M National Teaching Fellowship is sponsored by 3M Canada and the Society for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education. Founded in 1986, the Fellowship honours exceptional contributions to teaching and learning at the post-secondary level.

"Congratulations to the fellowship recipients, who are redefining post-secondary education and providing learning experiences that inspire students. Their leadership encourages innovation that will help educators and learners contribute to an increasingly complex world," said Elana Cooperberg, Chair of the STLHE Board of Directors.

“The 3M National Teaching Fellowship recognizes exceptional contributions to teaching and learning in Canada. This year’s Teaching Fellows are an inspirational group of educators who have committed their time to creating unique and relatable learning experiences in their field of study,” said Marie-Claude Brandys, Managing Director, 3M Canada. “Congratulations to this year’s Teaching Fellows. You are role models for the next generation of teachers and learners who strive for excellence in higher education.”

The 2024 3M National Teaching Fellowship Award recipients are excellent educators and leaders, both nationally and internationally, at their institutions and within their professional communities.

Recipients of the award each receive a two-year membership for STLHE and are invited to a retreat with their cohort to share knowledge and create synergies to continue to promote leadership and excellence in teaching and learning.

STLHE and 3M Canada will officially welcome these amazing educators into the Fellowship at the STLHE conference which will be hosted in Niagara Falls, ON from June 11-14, 2024.
