

Timber-framed feasting place

Summer
2019

"My time spent with the Shoal Lake community has taught me things that I could never learn in a typical classroom setting"

"I've begun to understand the depth of community bonds in First Nation reserves and respect for the people's connection to all walks of life"

ENG 4100 & EVDS 3710

DESIGN & BUILD COURSE

Through this boundary-crossing multi-disciplinary course, students engage with Indigenous knowledges and perspectives, incorporating them into the design process to create spaces for gathering, feasting, and ceremony.

The course offers architecture and engineering students, Elders, and Knowledge Keepers a unique opportunity to collaborate in a design and build studio in a Poetic Act on the Land.

"The course... has helped me see the beauty, freedom and creativity in a profession that can sometimes feel restricting, and more importantly, the beauty in the world."

Instructors: Farhoud Delijani, Kari Zacharias, Jillian Seniuk Cicek, Shawn Bailey
Guided by: Elders Norman Meade and Valdie Seymour

D2L

Open air space for gathering

Summer
2023

"The Path that leads to the spot we chose has uncomfortable parts. You cannot gather if you're not willing to be uncomfortable"

Pictures from staff and students
Quotes are in student voices